O days long past! When night is deep Ye oft wage war with holy sleep, And to some spectral region far Bear the sick soul your prisoner.

Before us in procession slow The dim, pathetic faces go, O'ylog, "Wuy scorn our weakness thus? Thy present soon will be like us!"?

First-childhood, with rale gold around Bit brows and wither'd ash-leaves bound, And in his azure-faded eyes The morning-star of Paradise.

First-love, with buoyant gestures still'd, And eyes of promise unfulfill'd. And trembling on his lips the white The sunset of the ancient smile.

Election of the Hon, A. S. Merrimon.

from Raleigh to the Wilmington Journal says.

Judge Merrion assured me in person, in a conversation with him a few moments aloce, that while he felt very grateful, personally, for the confidence and respect his political opponents had manifested for him in the vote they had given him, his political status and party relations remained unchanged, and that his political integrity was in no wise compromised. He assured me that he had had no communication whatever, direct or indirect, in person or through others, with the Radical party or any members thereof, in relation to the senatorial contest, that could affect his party relations; that it he considered that his election compromised his political principles, he would not accept the position. When the members of the Republican party voted for him, they did so knowing his past record and that he was still, a Conservative.

THE NORTH CAROLINA SENATORSHIP

The North Carolina Legislature has at last elected the Hon. A. S. Merrimon to the United States senator for the term of six years, beginning March 4, 1873, to succeed John Pool, the present Radical incumbent. He is a genman of fine abilities; and while not a strict party man is a Conservative in feeling, and will disappoint those Republicans who contributed so largely to his election. A dispatch from Raleigh to the Wilmington Journal says.
